Sleep: The Third Pillar of Health

A natural immunity booster, stress reducer, energiser and mood stabiliser, quality sleep is every bit as important to your health as diet and exercise.

The best sleep you'll ever have starts with the highest quality Merino wool, sourced directly from select South Island farms. Using only the finest all-natural fillings for optimum breathability and climate control, Dreamwool keeps you cooler and drier, helping you achieve a deeper sleep faster.

Dreamwool is New Zealand made and natural in all the right ways.

Our Story

Dreamwool has been in the mattress business since 1934 and in the Henderson family for over 40 years. Our beds were quite comparable to the rest of the market until 1978 when Dreamwool owner, Edgar Henderson, began his quest for the most luxurious sleep...

An ex-farmer with a bad back, Edgar remembered the old-fashioned black wool singlets worn by his shearers; how they acted as a natural insulator and adjusted to changes in temperature and humidity during the day. He realised these same principles applied to a good night's sleep. From there, the first Woollen Overlay was crafted and thousands have enjoyed the comfort, craftsmanship and quality of sleep with Dreamwool ever since.

The Dreamwool Difference

Ask What's Inside

Dreamwool pioneered the combination of latex and wool and refined it into the ultimate in luxury.

Second to none, our 100% natural latex mattresses are filled with the most generous layers of soft, temperature-regulating Merino wool, offering unmatched breathability free from foams, gels and synthetic fillings.

Each model is available in four different levels of support (soft, medium, firm or ultra-firm density) to suit your unique preferences. Our sustainable, industry-leading, 100% natural latex infused with activated charcoal offers unrivalled plushness and conformity, with the added benefits of being cooler, fresher and cleaner than traditional latex. Setting the industry standard with the volume and quality of our Merino wool, Dreamwool mattresses breathe, wicking away heat and humidity and creating the optimum sleeping climate for the best quality of sleep.

With long-lasting luxury and comfort that endures beyond its 10-year warranty, Dreamwool's discerning customers know: There's no comparison.
